SHOWERS ARE FORECAST FOR TONIGHT, FRIDAY

Torrid Weather Takes Heavy Toll in New York with 10 Dead

EIGHT DIE IN CHICAGO

Scores of Prostrations Reported in Many Sections in East, Middle West

After several days of scorching heat and many promises from the weatherman for rain and relief, Marion received a light shower this afternoon.

More rain was predicted by the weather bureau at Columbus for tonight.

Thirty-one lives have been claimed by the heat in the present spell. Marion has had no prostrations, according to reports.

• • •

With today's official forecast promising at least a brief period of showers and cooler weather, Marion residents face the prospect of being given a chance to recover from the effects of the present heat wave, which reached its crest yesterday when the local government thermometer registered a temperature of 94 degrees.

This was the summer's highest mark, the previous record for the season having been 93 degrees, registered two weeks ago.

96 Some Places

The official mercury reading of 94 does not tell the whole story, according to reports from other sections of the city, where some office and residence thermometers registered as high as 96.

Comparatively little relief came during the night, which at its coolest stage sent the mercury no lower than 70 degrees.

Unless the government weather bureau has mapped out the program wrong, there will be at least a brief season during which local citizens will be able to keep the starch in their collars during the day and get the benefit of at least a few hours sleep at night.

The forecast is "Mostly cloudy, probably showers tonight and Friday; cooler tonight."

A year ago the city was enjoying summer resort weather, according to the record of Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, local

FARMERS FACING FAIRLY PROSPEROUS YEAR, CLAIM

Expect Wheat and Hay Crops To Be Near Normal; Corn Most Doubtful

Marion County farmers have prospects of a fairly prosperous year in spit of being handicapped at the outset by unfavorable weather conditions, according to a summary of reports coming from various parts of the county.

Wheat and hay crops are expected to somewhere near normal proportions and oats will probably amount to more than was generally anticipated in the early forecasts, farmers state.

Corn is the most doubtful item among the county's major grain products, the prospects being that there will be little more than a half crop. With weather conditions continuing favorable however, the corn yield may run considerably higher than present conditions indicate.

The mid-summer harvest season is now under way, cutting of wheat being in progress on many farms throughout the county.

Porch Campaign for Reed?

Since the senior senator from Missouri, James A. Reed, has moved into his new home in the fashionable Country Club district of Kansas City, Mo., there have been whisperings in political circles that the senator is planning a "front porch campaign for the presidency." Senator Reed merely smiles, refusing to confirm or deny the rumors. Above are two characteristic poses of Reed, snapped at his home and, upper left, the house which may be the scene of many political conferences should the senator be given the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gasoline Price War Here at Temporary Standstill With 11 Stations Enrolled

Several Large Distributing Companies Reported Considering Price Cutting Agreement as Battle Enters Third Day; Others May Be Drawn into Fray

Progress of Marion's gasoline price war came to at least a temporary standstill today, no recruits in the ranks of the price-slashing filling stations being reported in addition to the 10 listed yesterday.

In the midst of the seeming suspension of warfare, however, there were indications of possible developments which may draw other gasoline dealers into the field of conflict.

These developments depend upon the course taken by the several large distributing companies which supply oil and gasoline to filling stations through out the city. It is regarded as possible that at least several of these companies may unite in a price cutting agreement.

In the meantime, Maurice Wolfe, operator of the new filling station at E. Center and High-sts, where sale of 15cent gasoline was started Tuesday, launching the conflict which resulted in 10 competing dealers establishing a 14-cent price, is standing pat and continuing business on his original price schedule. He states that his price will remain the same regardless of rates charged by his competitors.

The 10 dealers offering 14-cent gas sell Pure Oil Co. and Sinclair Oil Co. products. Local managers of both companies stated today that their concerns have taken no action and that the 10 dealers offering 14-cent gas are doing so of their own volition.

TENTH ARREST MADE IN FARM ROBBER ROUNDUP

Ralph Henry, 19, Awaits Arraignment on Grand Larceny Charge

The list of arrests in connection with the round-up of alleged members of Marion County's farm robber band, started by Sheriff James A. Deal several months ago, has been increased to 10, the latest suspect taken into custody being Ralph Henry, 19, of Edwards-st.

Henry, arrested last night by Deal and Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland, is in the county jail awaiting arraignment on a grand larceny charge filed in municipal court. He is accused of having been implicated in the theft of hogs from the James B. Guthery farm, west of the city.

Henry, who was convicted in connection with chicken thefts last winter, is reported to be ill at the jail today and his condition may delay his arraignment in municipal court for several days.

Of the nine other men arrested in connection with the farm robberies, seven are now serving prison terms, one is in county jail awaiting outcome of his case in the court of appeals and the ninth is also in jail pending action on his case by the next grand jury.

THREE MEN ENTER HOME OF JUDGE HILL, JOLIET

Believe Action Prompted by Three Scheduled To Hang Friday

Joliet, Ill., July 14—Three men broke into the home here today of Judge Frederick A. Hill, who imposed sentence upon the three desperate convicted murderers sentenced to hang Friday for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter M. Klein.

The men, believed by authorities to have been prompted in their raid by Walter Stalesky, Charles Duchowski, and Robert Torrez, who have been ordered to the gallows, were routed by the jurist's son, John Hill.

That Robert Torrez may escape sentence tomorrow was seen as a possibility in the actions of J. X. Mondragon, Mexican consul of Chicago, who asked that Judge Hill rule upon a petition of insanity.

100 CASES LISTED FOR FRIDAY TRAFFIC COURT

Wholesale Tagging Result of Recent War on Unlawful Automobile Lighting

As a result of the recent war declared by Chief of Police Thompson on automobile drivers who operate their cars with only one headlight or who in other ways violates that section of the traffic ordinance covering lights on an automobile, more than 100 cases are scheduled for hearing in municipal court Friday morning.

Nearly 100 violators were tagged by the police on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, last night violators were more scarce only a few tags being issued by the police. Each violator as he appears at the office of the municipal court clerk is required to put up a deposit of $2 or $5, depending upon his offense, for his appearance in court on traffic day, which in this case will be Friday morning.

The fact that a great many of the violators, especially those who have deposited $2, do not appear in court, presents a congestion in court on traffic day.

Practically all tags given out are for driving with one head light, driving with no lights or failing to have a parking light and nearly all tags were given out in the residence district. Chief of Police Thompson said today that no special effort was being made to enforce the lighting of tail lights in the uptown district.

REFUSE APOLOGY

Jewish Organization Fail To Pass Resolution Commending Ford

Washington, July 14—Jews in the national capital refuse to accept Henry Ford's apology.

At a mass meeting last night, attended by representatives of all the Jewish organizations in Washington, a resolution commending Ford for his retraction of things said about the race, failed of passage by a vote of 37 to 23.

Rabbi George Silverstone apparently spoke the majority sentiment when he said:

"What Ford has done cannot be remedied with words."

One Under Par Champion's 72 In Second Round Makes Tough Going For Trailers

Supremacy of Bobby Jones on St. Andrew's Course Carried Over Another Day as 140 Is Registered Lowest Total Returned to Date by Brilliant Field

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 14 — Bobby Jones still commands the British Open Golf Championship at the end of the second round.

Shooting one better than par today, Jones turned in a 72 for the second round, which, coupled with his marvelous 68 of yesterday gave him an aggregate of 140.

B. Hodson, of Tenby, is on Jones heels with an aggregate of 142 but two strokes advantage in this tournament is worth a lot and the experts who picked Jones to win are already beginning to say "I told you so."

Potato Lends Luck

Jones was off with a splendid drive but he over-ran the green with his approach and had a five for the hole. The next three holes he reeled off in par figures. At the fifth Jones had a bit of luck for his second shot was bound for a bunker when it struck a potato that had found its way to the course and the ball hopped the bunker. A birdie three at the sixth and a par four at the seventh helped his card. At the eighth, the champion pulled his drive but he made a nice recovery and holed a par three. Again his drive was pulled at the ninth and his approach was excellent but he took three putts for a five. Jones' card out follows:

Out 5-4-4-4-5-3-4-3-5—37.

Compston Blows Up

Archie Compston went out in par 36 today. He looked like a sensation. Then, tried professional that he is, he did what any duffer can do—took a 10 for the par five fourteenth. For the encouragement of the duffers his card is presented:

Out 4-4-5-4-4-4-3-4-4—36.

In 3-2-5-4-10-4-5-4-6—42.

Walter Kennett, of Florida, had a nice round in 75 for an aggregate of 153. B. Hodson, Welsh champion, turned in a 70 for an aggregate 142. Cyril Toller had a fine 73 for an aggregate of 150. J. H. Taylor had a 78 for an aggregate of 154. H. C. Jolly was burdened with an 80 and an aggregate of 162. Harry Vardon didn't cheer over his 78, and his aggregate of 156. Jean Gassiat, of France, turned in 77 for a total of 153. Joe Kirkwood, of Albany, Ga., is now in third place with an aggregate of 144.

Jones has set a stiff pace and those who fial to get an aggregate of 156, or better, today can clean their clubs, put the hood on their bags and catch "The Flying Scotsman" down to London tonight, for they will fail to qualify for tomorrow's gruelling final thirty-six holes.

NEW CONCERN SUSTAINS LOSS ON THIRD DAY

Office at Center and High-sts Entered; Combination Is Knocked from Safe

LOSS FULLY COVERED

Logan Gas Co. Watchman Hears Pounding; Garage Men Notice Automobile

Gaining entrance by using a duplicate key or by picking the lock of the tiny structure's one door, burglars early today rifled the safe in the office of The Low Price Filling Station, Center and High-sts, and escaped with more than $600 in cash.

The money taken represented the station's receipts for Wednesday, the second day of the new concern's operation here.

Sixteen dollars, which was covered up by papers in the safe, was overlooked by the burglars.

Due to the fact that salesmen's cash slips were contained in the loot taken from the safe the exact amount of the loss could not be determined.

Force Safe Door

In forcing entrance to the small safe the burglars knocked off the combination and forced an inner compartment open, apparently with the use of a jimmy or chisel.

The entire loss is covered by insurance, Howard Colmorgan, manager of the station, said today.

The burglary was discovered by Colmorgan when he opened for business this morning.

The sound of pounding heard by a watchman at the office of the Logan Gas Co. next door and the sound of an automobile being driven away heard by a watchman at the Busch Garage across the street, led police to believe the robbery took place between 4 and 4:30 o'clock this morning.

Sledge Hammer Used

Police believe the robbery was the work of the same gang who have broken into a number of filling stations and other offices in the last several months. A sledge hammer had evidently been used to break the combination from the safe although no tools were left behind by the robbers. The combination was found on the floor near the safe.

A light which had been turned out by the station operators when leaving late last night, was burning when the office was opened this morning and windows facing the west and north were open. It was first thought entrance was gained by forcing open one of these windows, but an investigation failed to reveal where either had been forced and it is now the belief that the front door was used as the means of entrance, and the windows were opened through which to make a hasty exit if they were interrupted.

Gives Clew

The only clew held by the police was given by Bain D. Emerson, one of the operators at the station, who gave a description of a stranger who visited the station between 10:30 and 11 o'clock and who appeared much interested in the business done by the station during the day.

GIRL TRIES HOLDUP, ATTEMPT FRUSTRATED

Nineteen-Year-Old Saginaw Miss Says Her Father Owed $1,000

Saginaw, Mich., July 14—"I attempted it to obtain money for my father, who owes $1,000," Viola Harris, 19, said here today after her lone attempt to hold up the Peoples Savings Bank, a large downtown institution.

Armed with a nickeled single action revolver of ancient origin, the girl entered the crowded bank, and after loitering about the lobby for 20 minutes, presented a Flint bank check on which was written: "Pay to the order of the bearer $5,000; eight $500 bills and ten $100 bills; make it snappy." The check was turned in at the window occupied by Teller E. E. Speckhard, the girl's hand he dropped to the floor.

When Speckhard noted the gun in the girl's hand he dropped to the floor and kicked the burglar alarm. The alarm brought an officer who made the arrest.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 1041-3285 W. Behind the Screen

Maria Corda

SINCE the very beginning of existence, women have been confronted with a problem that neither time nor progress nor civilization seems to be able to solve for them. The problem is "the other woman" or the vampire.

She is the creature who, since time immemorial, has lured good men away from their wives, who wrung the hearts of their sisters with despair, with hatred, with envy, and, if we suspect rightly, with curiosity. Oh, yes, curiosity. For vampires, in pictures, as in life, are more interesting to women than to men. Women want to know just what makes a vampire so attractive. They may not want to use her wiles to win favor with the opposite sex, but they certainly want the security of knowing the vampire's tricks in case they get into a tight place.

And, it would seem, that for this reason motion picture producers have turned so obligingly their especial attention to the vampire. They have pictured all types of them, real and imaginary, attractive and ridiculous, sometimes so ridiculous that one could not for the world imagine how any man ever could become her victim.

But let us turn to the vampires themselves and hear what they have to say. Not so long ago little Mary Astor stepped forth, after completing her first vampire role in "The Arabian Knights," declaring that all women have a vampire complex to a greater or lesser degree, depending upon their moral stamina and emotional range.

• • •

And Maria Corda, the Hungarian screen vampire, who at the present time is making "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" in the United States, voices her observations as follows: "Even the most kind-hearted woman will toy with the hearts of men, because until she marries, she will not relinquish her hold on various prospects. This sounds callous, deliberate and cold, but it is true.

"For centuries women have had to sit back modestly and wait for men to select them as mates or wives. Unlike the male of the species, they have not enjoyed the privilege of seeking, but have been forced to select from the small or large aggregate of men, who have deigned to smile upon them. Consequently, behind all their modesty women through the ages have had to make the best of the weapons they possessed to fight for their happiness. Those weapons are charm, [illegible] and SALESMANSHIP.

Pretty tough on the poor men, no matter which way they turn, it seems to us the curtain.

Pathe's has been signed on "The Coward" based on the story by Arthur Stringer, with Warner Baxter in the leading role. "The Coward" concerns itself with the regeneration of a man mentally and physically coward. The action takes place in "fashionable New York."

• • •

Louise Fazenda will play the leading role in "Ham and Egg at the Front," a comedy concerning the colored troops in France. Myrna Loy, Tom Wilson and Hector Conklin, also, have been recruited.

"Fishes in Love" is another imported short picture, providing interesting study of the inhabitants of the watery depths.

Young Dog Protects Kittens When They Stray to Tracks

TRADITIONAL animosity was buried for the nonce and only the desire to protect prompted a young dog owned by a family on N. State st, to use force in teaching a lesson of cautiousness to two little kittens in the neighborhood, recently. Neighbors seated on their porches saw the little kittens wending their way to the middle of the street car tracks only to be pursued a few minutes later by the young dog who lifted them bodily one by one and carried them to safety on the lawn of their home. The performance was repeated when the more daring of the two made a second trip to the middle of the street.

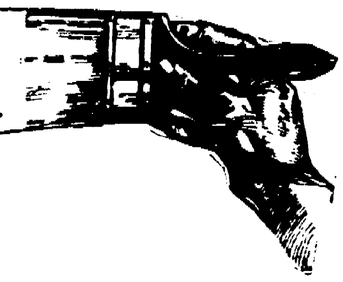
"Save the surface and you save all"—Paint & Varnish



IT COSTS more not to paint than to paint. Putting it another way, you pay for painting whether you do it or not. The difference is that your house doesn't bill you for one lump sum. It bills you for a series of repairs and renewals that add up in the course of a few years to a far greater sum than painting would have cost. Paint and varnish—applied promptly when the surfaces need renewed protection—more than pay for themselves. And they make home so much more livable and cheerful and attractive. Also offices and stores and factories.

ERIE RAILROAD WORKERS GO TO ANNUAL OUTING

Large Delegation from Marion Leaves for Picnic in New York State

Nearly 75 veterans of the Erie Railroad of Marion and vicinity, boarded Train No. 8, at 6:50 o'clock this morning, the start of their journey to Bear Mountain Park, New York, to attend the second annual outing of the Veterans' Association there.

The train leaving this morning with the Marion veterans operated as an extra Pullman and sleeper in order to accommodate the employes at other points of the system who also were intending to attend the outing.

At Hornell, N. Y., Train No. 8 was to have been combined with a special train, appropriated for the purpose by the Erie Railroad Co., which was to carry the veterans to Jersey City. From that city a special river boat, "The Sea Gate," had been chattered to carry the employes to Bear Mountain Park. The outing and picnic will take place at the park Friday.

Return trip will be made Saturday by a special train to Hornell and from that city the local outing guests will return home on Train No. 7.

At Jersey City the Marion group and other veterans which will be picked up along the line will be met by the Erie Railroad President's band which will accompany the association to the picnic grounds. C. L. Edinger, president of the association, and J. J. Burnett, president of the Erie Railroad, are expected to be honorary guests at the outing.

Only employes who have seen 20 or more years of service with the Erie Railroad are permitted to attend the outing which is given annually.

A. L. Conrad, agent of the local office of the Erie Transfer is vice president of the Erie Veterans Association and will play a prominent part in the business session at the outing. He will lead the Marion delegation.

Dock Track

Accommodations for lake freighters that would unload cargoes at the Pennsylvania Dock at Toledo, are being installed at that city. A switching track is being laid close to the edge of the dock so that freighters can unload cargoes from the ships directly to the freight cars.

It is expected that better time can be made of shipments with the installation of the new dock at that point.

Annual Reunion

The second annual reunion of the Hocking Valley Employes Association will be held Saturday, Oct. 8, at Columbus, according to word received at the local office.

The bulletin stating the time and place of the annual affair also announced that all employes of the road who have completed 25 years of service since January, are eligible for membership in the association and are also permitted to attend the reunion at Columbus.

Rail Briefs

Clarence Porter, value clerk at the local office of the American Railway Express, left for a week's vacation yesterday.

M. F. Schnell, district passenger agent of the Chicago Great Western Railroad Co., with offices in Chicago, was in Marion on business yesterday.

L. J. Myers, value clerk of American Railway Express, returned from a week's vacation yesterday morning.

RICHMAN'S fine CLOTHES

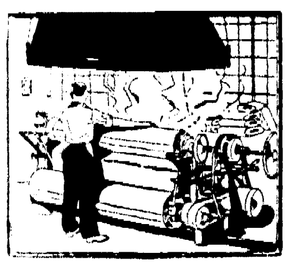
Established 1879



Shrinking Woolens

The Third of a Series on Richman Manufacturing Processes.

After the woolens purchased for Richman's Clothes have been rigidly tested and examined, they are thoroughly shrunk before cutting.

The last word in equipment, and the utmost care of skilled woolen experts, are employed in this important process.

Live steam is forced through every fiber of the cloth, instead of merely dampening the surface with cold water. The fabric is then loosely rolled and allowed to stand until it has shrunk to the last possible degree.

There is no better process known for making woolens absolutely proof against shrinking. A Richman Suit can be soaked in water without shrinking the smallest fraction of an inch; and when dried and pressed it will look as good as new.

Smartly Styled-- Honestly Tailored-- Fairly Priced--

You'll find in Richman's Clothes every quality feature you expect of clothes sold at substantially higher prices.

All $22.50

Unrestricted Choice

Do not judge Richman's Clothes by suits ordinarily offered at this price—form your opinion only when you have tried on and carefully examined a Richman suit — then you'll know how truly we say—"America's Greatest Value."

Weekly shipments from our own great factories keep our stocks fresh and complete—every new style—all the wanted weaves and shades in seasonable weights—sizes and proportions to properly fit any man—all carefully tailored by employes whose stock-ownership is an incentive for fine work—you'll find it a pleasure, rather than a task, to make your selections here.

PASTOR WITHDRAWS HIS CHARGES AGAINST COLE

Coolidge's Minister Had Accused Government Engineer of Moral Turpitude

Washington, July 14—Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of President Coolidge's church here, who gave the capital a nine-day sensation recently by endeavoring to have Howard F. Cole, a government engineer, "fired" from the U. S. Shipping Board on charges involving moral turpitude, has withdrawn his charges and sailed for Europe on a vacation, it was learned today. Cole had brought suit against the pastor for $50,000.

The case had its origin in a letter which Dr. Pierce wrote to Gen. A. C. Dalton, president of the emergency fleet, demanding Cole's dismissal and his "banishment" from Washington. The pastor accused Cole of having had intimate relations with one of his parishioners, a widow who had "confessed" to the pastor. Cole denied the charges and countered with the suit, declaring he would make Dr. Pierce prove his allegations, or pay $50,000 for damaging his reputation. Cole is unmarried.

Just before sailing for Europe, Dr. Pierce sent General Dalton another letter, saying, "It is requested that you consider as withdrawn charges preferred against Howard T. Cole, an engineer in the employ of the U. S. Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation, in my communications of April 2 and May 10, 1927."

NAME HILL COMPANION OF BERTAUD ON FLIGHT

Air Mail Pilot Has Record of More Than 5,000 Hours in Air

New York, July 14—James De Witt Hill, pilot on the air mail route between New York and Cleveland for the last three years, has been selected as the companion of Lloyd Bertaud in the giant monoplane, "Old Glory," on her flight to Rome and return, it was announced today.

Hill, whose record tells of more than 5,000 hours in the air, was chosen, backers of the flight said, because he has shown himself a veteran of the skies who has never deserted his plane in time of distress.

"J. D." as he is familiarly called, has faced death eight times in the air, when ice, or sleet, or snow have forced his plane to earth, but not once has he abandoned his ship for the safety of a parachute.

The New York to Rome flight is sponsored by William Randolph Hearst.

That day is passed when a gorgeous scarfpin made a stunning impression.

SPECIAL DE MOLAY MEET SCHEDULED FOR AUG. 4

Legion of Honor Degree To Be Conferred on Two Past Councilors

Charles H. Conley, district deputy of the Order of DeMolay, announced today that Aug. 4 has been designated as the date for the special meeting to be held here for conferring the Legion of Honor degree on two past councilors of the local DeMolay chapter. July 27 was originally set for the meeting but this date was canceled because of inability of George S. Clark of Cleveland, state deputy, to be present at that time.

Mr. Clark will have charge of the meeting. The Legion of Honor degree is to be conferred on Roy Cheeny and James Richards, who are included in a list of 27 Ohioans selected to receive the degree, the highest of the order.

This will be the first time that the Legion of Honor degree has been conferred in this city and the fourth time in the state. A special program is being arranged for the meeting which will be open to the public. It will take place at the Masonic Temple.

Daily Proverb—"No day should pass without something being done."

Another thing we are utterly unable to understand is why our old friend, "Tireless Bud," has never been drafted for a transatlantic flight.

We have often wondered how much of a record these champion marathon dancing girls have made helping "Mother" with the housework.

The Cleanliness Institute of America is sponsoring a movement for a "Take-a-Bath" week. Isn't the proposal just a bit radical?

If Stephenson is going to tell all, and conditions out in Indiana are as bad as reported, it's up to him to get a hustle on himself. The years are passing rapidly.

The lynching record thus far this year is nine, which rather goes to show that the one-time great outdoor southern sport is enjoying a revival.

The public has been so "fed up" on Hollywood divorce stories, that there might be a real news item in locating a couple out there, if there is such, each of whom is living with his or her original mate.

Apropos of that cowboy outfit given the president, what a blessing chaps might prove to editors and others of sedentary habits were they worn the other way.

There is one thing to be said for some of the substitutes for the one-time great favorite snake-bite remedy: those who take them sometimes do not get a chance to go home and beat up their families.

We have waited a couple of weeks now and not come upon a single comment to the effect that it was to be expected that a Byrd could find its way across the Atlantic.

It is no more than fair to Senator Heflin, who wants the proceedings of congress broadcasted, to say that he may mean well. We have always felt that Thomas acted right up to his understanding.

It is figured that it will cost France $2,000,000,000 to run her government next year. We very gravely fear that our participation in the war was not to France a wholly unmixed blessing. Some of the boys while over there must have tipped off the French politicians how we run the government over here.

The Ford Statement.

What has been termed the apology of Henry Ford for the attacks of his Dearborn Independent on the Jews, which embodied a pledge that there should be no recurrence of them, is far more easily understood than why there ever should have been occasion for either. We have waited patiently, but in vain, for some light which might lead us to a comprehension of the possible causes leading to the inception of such a campaign as the Independent waged. Why it ever was started is beyond our understanding, but far more incomprehensible to us is how such a campaign could be waged, week after week, year after year, without the knowledge of Mr. Ford, or how, knowledge having finally come to him, he did not at once comprehend at least the possibility that he might be doing grave injustice to the Jewish people.

The wealth of Mr. Ford gave the charges an importance they did not merit. Had they been made by some publication without standing, edited and published by sensationalists and scandal-mongers, no attention would have been paid to them worthy the name. But made by the paper of a billionaire, a billionaire held to be one of calm and considerate mind, a paper which was held out and advertised to be the "Chronicler of the Neglected Truth," the public, which is prone to attribute understanding to those who have achieved greatly in business or industry, accepted them as at least founded upon truth.

It speaks well for Mr. Ford that he has withdrawn and repudiated his paper's charges as being utterly without foundation in fact. It was the manly thing for him to do, and the doing of it required courage. But, busy as he must be, we are yet utterly unable to understand how it was possible that he was so slow to learn that which all the reading world so long had known—that a merciless campaign was being waged by his paper against the Jewish people.

Be all this as it may, we are glad to see an end of the campaign which could not do other than arouse race prejudice. Any campaign tending to arouse either race or religious prejudice is without place under the basic law of our land and can have no place in the esteem of patriotic Americans.

The country is to be congratulated that this particular campaign is no more. Mr. Ford is to be congratulated that he saw the light and has done his utmost to make amends. And the leading Hebrews of the country are to be congratulated as a result of the manner in which they have received his endeavor to make amends.

It is a far better outcome than could have been expected from a most unfortunate situation.

The Caterpillar Pest.

Marion's beautiful trees have not yet been seriously affected by the caterpillar pest which is being reported from many parts of the country, but the pest has appeared here and unless property-owners exercise vigilance our shade trees are sure to suffer. Some of our citizens who make a practice of watching their trees carefully to guard against any and all pests which may attack them have been cutting off the small limbs—limbs running from an inch and a half to three inches—upon which the moths lay the eggs from which the caterpillars come, and burning them later spraying the trees. There is no difficulty about detecting such limbs for they as well as the leaves they bear are literally covered with the eggs. In some cases the main trunk limbs are infected, but not often. Other local citizens are spraying their trees to rid them of the moths.

An odd phase of the pest is that there may be half a dozen or more trees upon a lot and only one of them be utilized by the moths for egg-laying purposes. The caterpillars, however, are not so considerate. They go from tree to tree, eating away and leaving only the ribs of the leaves.

Henry V. S. Lord, the Washington entomologist, has recommended to property-owners in Washington, which is seriously affected by the caterpillars, poison sprays, which he holds are the cheapest and best means of combatting the pest. He suggests a spray composed of four to six pounds of arsenate of lead in the paste form or half that amount in the powdered form to fifty gallons of water, to be applied as early as possible.

When possible, the spray should be directed upon infected trees at the time the first brood of young caterpillars is hatching, which will not only kill them, but largely reduce the second brood as well. If too late to spray at this period, the trees should be sprayed as quickly as possible after the young caterpillars begin feeding upon the leaves.

The present pest is said to be the tussock moth. Best known in the caterpillar stage, the white-masked tussock moth is, at maturity, about an inch and a half long. The young caterpillars are covered with yellow tinted hairs and are very pale in color. Fully grown, the tussock caterpillar is somewhat gorgeous in its adornment. It has four dense white tussocks, or brushes of hair, on its back. Its head is red, and arising over it is a fringe of white hair. Just behind the head and on either side of its body, the caterpillar wears a black plume half an inch long. A broad black band bordered by a yellow band runs down its back. The outside yellow band is bounded by a dark grey area and the under side is yellowish.

Nature provided safeguards against all such pests—the birds, but we have driven the most of them away. Our feathered protectors are so reduced in number that they are no longer equal to the assaults of the insect pests and mankind is forced to combat them.

The way of locating the eggs having been explained, the moths and their methods having been described and the best method of eradicating the pest having been pointed out, we should experience no great difficulty in protecting our trees if we are vigilant and act in time.

Off hand, we assume that Mr. Edison's dream city of low taxes is located on "The Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Rich gold-bearing ore has been discovered in Ontario, and we can almost hear the personal liberty crowd exclaiming, "Don't those Ontario people have all the luck!"

Considering the marked change in the esteem of Dempsey's prowess entertained by sport writers since his last previous training, what a joke it would be on them should he come back and show them up again!

When a mouse ran up the leg of a Fond du Lac motorist he grabbed for the mouse and lost control of his machine, which pinned a pedestrian against a car ahead, breaking one of the pedestrian's legs and injuring him internally. In common justice to us true aristocrats, the least motorists can do is either train their mice better or leave them at home.

There are two kinds of motorists: those who are considerate of the rights of others and the lily-bred kind who try to run down pedestrians at thoroughfare intersections and scowl at them when they succeed in leaping out of the way.

In summing up his case against Sergius Druzelovsky, tried in Moscow and sentenced to death on the charge of espionage and the fabrication of forged documents against soviet Russia, Prosecutor Katanyan described Druzelovsky as one who defeated the movement headed by Senator Borah for the recognition of the soviet union at the moment of Borah's greatest influence. Even Mr. Borah's Russian friends appear to be cognizant of the fact that the senator's influence has waned a bit since he began to manifest so much concern for the welfare of Russia.

ANOTHER TEN-GALLON HAT.

Needs in Child Training.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

I happened to pick up a newspaper the other day and I saw a brief reference to an address made by Mrs. Daphne Drake, vice president of the Child Study Association of America.

Everything Mrs. Drake says is worth considering. In this address she states that enthusiasm and affection of the parents for the growing child are not enough. The mother must be trained in hygiene and in psychology to understand and guide her child from early infancy to adolescence.

Mrs. Drake thinks that the changed conditions in life due to the transition from a simpler life to one of great complexity have increased enormously the difficulties of parental guidance.

There can be no doubt that modern methods of dealing with the child have materially bettered its prospect of long life. No doubt this improvement has much to do with the psychological control of the child as it has with its better environment, its improved feeding, and its protection from infection.

Mrs. Drake is so sensible a woman that she won't take offense if I suggest the qualities of motherhood are much the same today as they have been through the ages. Whether it is parental instinct or that some persons are natural born parents, I do not undertake to say. It is a matter of observation, however, that most mothers instinctively know what is good for their babies.

It would be most unfortunate, however, if the mother were to trust to her instincts. There is the greatest difference in the world between the results of scientific upbringing of a child and the results of depending upon the natural instincts. I do not believe that New York City mothers loved their children any less fifty years ago than do the mothers of today, yet it is a fact that fifty years ago half the children died in the first year of life. It is probable that eight times as many babies died as do at present. Of course, nobody would contend that mothers are eight times as wise as they were then, or that their maternal instincts are greatly different.

What has actually happened is that we have learned about germs, and that contaminated milk is fatal to infant life. We have learned to avoid dirt and the things which contaminate the infant and produce illness.

I trust that we have made progress in psychology, too, and that parents know better now, by reason of their training, how to develop right habits in the child, what Mrs. Drake calls "habits of success," and not "habits of failure." We can not begin any too early to cultivate these habits and to lead the child into paths which make for mental as well as physical development.

Poems That Live.

OPPORTUNITY

Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing—soon or late
I knock, unbidden, once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every fate
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore.
I answer not, and I return no more!

Editorial Comment.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

The contemporary definition of success is the making of money; with this I have no quarrel. There is, however, another, truer form of success. If, sophisticated and disillusioned as you are, you can still remember with a thrill some of the thoughts and ideals that stirred your soul in high school; if, agnostic and scoffer, though you may be, you can still be touched by the quiet beauty of worship; if, above the din and strife, you can still hear singing in your heart some of the songs of your youth; if, at times, you can relive the golden moments of courtship and engagement; if, above all, you have kept the divine gift of supreme happiness at the sight of a sunset; at the sound of music; at the revealing of poetry's hidden music; at the revealing of poetry's hidden beauty, then you are successful, though you owe all your tradesmen and drive a 1922 motor car.—Imperial Type Metal Magazine.

TWO GREAT OFFICES.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, the only man who has held the office of president of the United States and that of chief justice, has compared the life and work of president and chief justice. In an interview, the chief justice has for the first time given public expression to his views. And despite the power, the glamour, the vital interest attached to the office of chief executive, it is clear that his preference is for the more quiet and orderly office of chief justice.

Some men, as the chief justice points out, are more inclined by nature to the aggressive action demanded by an executive office, and others to the calm determination of the judge. By preference the chief justice places himself in the latter category. Happily for the country, the chief justice combines the qualities and abilities of both the executive and the judge. As governor general of the Philippines when Roosevelt was president, later as secretary of war, and finally as president, Mr. Taft showed great administrative ability. But before he entered upon these executive offices he had been a judge. He never lost his fondness for the judicial office and atmosphere. President Roosevelt, as he reveals in his interview, offered to appoint him to the supreme bench, while he was still governor general of the Philippines, but because he was needed in the islands, he remained there, and it was not until years later that he was appointed chief justice by President Harding.

The picture of life and work on the supreme bench drawn by the chief justice has its allure. The nerve-racking office of chief executive of the nation is clearly revealed. The constantly-recurring demand for immediate, almost snap, decision which is found in the office of the president is in direct contrast with the deliberate action of the judge, aided by other members of the court.

The life of a president doubtless is the more exciting. The plaudits of the throng may be sweet to the ear, the honor of serving as chief executive may tickle the sensibilities, but the solid satisfaction and comfort of the judicial position more than compensates for the lack of excitement found on the bench.

On the bench the chief justice presides, but his voice in the opinion of the supreme court ranks with that of the eight associate justices. The opinion, though it may be written and handed down by the chief justice, is the opinion of the court. In the White House, although the president has the benefit, if he wishes it, of the opinion of his cabinet officers on any question that may come up, the decision rests finally with the chief executive. His is the final responsibility. In the government of the United States this responsibility has become so great as to be crushing to any but the strongest.—Washington Star.

THE ONE ADVANTAGE.

Thomas Heflin, who represents Alabama in the senate, suggests that an effort be made to broadcast the proceedings of both houses of congress. We can think of one reason why this might be a good thing. It would give the people of the country an opportunity to find out what awful dubs a good many of their senators and representatives really are, and after "going on the air" a few times, those gentlemen might "get it," which would be a national gain.—Detroit Free Press.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The practice of some important manufacturers of sharing profits with those who help to create the profits has a double importance. It is not only a fine and fair act, a humanitarian gesture that experience shows it pays to make in that fashion. Says one of the best known manufacturers in the United States:

"Our generosity has not come from altogether altruistic motives. While I receive a great deal of satisfaction in giving our people more money than they could obtain anywhere else, nevertheless it has paid us to do it. It has enabled us to keep in our ranks with men who have the character and ability to do the job as it should be done."

It's sound to be a common-place world after all. A London firm is offering aeroplanes on the instalment plan. One thinks of the aeroplane as the peculiar vehicle of romance. Now, it is made, it takes its place with cars that run upon the earth, and washing machines and cows.

Dr. Grile, famous Ohio surgeon, has been hunting lions in Africa. He is impressed with the health of the animals he found. They furnish a perfect example of the survival of the fittest. They live in a land where there is nothing to interfere with the natural processes of evolution.

The lion does well because nobody protects the weak ones. If they are weak or sick they die. The strong ones live and have strong offspring. Among us humans we take care of the weak. We are civilized. We must keep alive the unfit because it is what we call a moral thing to do. Thus we interfere with the natural process of evolution.

After all, there's nothing to do about it. We must be kind.—Copyright, 1927.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 14—The East Side spends $5,000,000 a year in the push cart market. Here amid a confusing rabble may be purchased everything eatable, wearable or sinkable. No cross section of Manhattan life is more colorful and interesting.

The East Side bubbles before sun up and sizzles in a banjo tor and glare after midnight. There is an enchanting joyousness about push cart marketing—an infectious merriment where haggling and purse pinching. Bargaining in the Ghetto is not labour but a pastime.

Crowds drift by stalls in endless, snaky procession. In each stall is a sort of world chromo. There is the bearded patriarch with parchment skin who grinds horseradish behind protecting smoked glass. He seems completely mummified.

Then there are the wizened orthodox women who sit patiently all day in silence beside their men. Sons and daughters belong to the new generation, but they have not learned to speak the new language. Each stall seems to be a domestic pet—a dog, cat or bird.

There is something of gloomy fatalism about the venerable women of the market stalls. They have come across the seas to the promised land to rear big families, but somehow they can not take root in a new soil. They seem frozen to the ice of a foreign tongue, mute and staring.

The experienced push cart marketer never accepts the first price. He merely laughs and starts to move one. This is a prelude to bickering for he is always stopped and the sale battle begins. The stranger might think a personal encounter is near, but it invariably ends good humouredly.

In doorways are tiny stands selling pumpkin seeds—parboiled in salt water, a Ghetto delicacy. Also celery beer the favorite beverage. Male and female may be habited from head to foot from push carts and a flat almost completely outfitted.

* * *

The Ghetto lives in a world of superstition. Love philters are hawked openly on Grand street. During high winds passersby can hear anguished wails of many East Side mothers for to them the cry of the elements is the voice of unbaptized children. Residents of Essex street and east Broadway believe in Lilith, legendary first wife of Adam who is supposed to harm the new-born child. Others have faith in the blood of a basilisk, the right eye of a serpent and a tick taken from the left ear of a cat. In the Italian quarter in Mulberry bend many balk "the evil eye" by pointing the fingers to the ground and reciting a certain incantation.

* * *

Today came news of a heartening bit of sentiment displayed by a "dumb act" in vaudeville. He is a wire walker, opening and closing the bill. His wife and mother of his five children acts as a sort of helper—handing him hoops to climb through, ladders to mount and such. Before the climax of his act she is deported in an amateurish bit of dancing. And to the act she is billed first in larger type than her husband.

* * *

It strikes me my that vaudeville audiences should show more sportsmanship than to walk out on these "dumb acts" who risk necks so cheerfully in desperate effort to entertain under such discouraging conditions. To remain ten minutes longer in seats, will not mean much to the average audience but will mean more than they can ever understand to people doing their reckless best to please.

Speaking of vaudeville my favorite burlesque of the season is Will Mahoney.

* * *

His amusing aside to the orchestra leader who gets ahead of him in a clownish wooden shoe dance. "Wait for the artist, please!" is almost as hilarious as the expression on his face when he suddenly realizes he is falling down. And when doing one fall he hurriedly takes off his coat to use as a shock cushion when he lands, this hysterical correspondent had to be led out for air.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

HERBERT HOOVER.

Herbert Clark Hoover was born at West Branch, Iowa, August 10, 1874. He has been secretary of commerce, appointed first by President Harding, since March 5, 1921. Hoover was United States food administrator from 1917 to 1919, and also served as a member of the war trade council. He was chairman of the United States Grain corporation, the United States sugar equalization board, the interallied food council, and food secretary of the supreme economic council. Hoover directed various economic measures in Europe during the armistice, including the organization of food supplies to Poland, Serbia, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Austria, Roumania, Armenia and the Baltic states.

Secretary Hoover does not look for a rapid growth of air passenger service in this country. He says:

"We are going to have in the United States as much flying as there is in all Europe and it will not cost us one penny in the form of a subsidy. It is interesting to note that all recent air mail contracts show a profit for the postoffice department.

"The passenger traffic will be a slower growth than will be the case in the transportation of express and mail. Mail transportation is here and express transportation is in sight. It is doubtful if a passenger service will pay now, and that is why, at this time, we should concentrate on express and mail. Of course, we can take a passenger or two now and then and judicially build up the passenger-carrying phase of the proposition.

"I am very often asked about the possibilities of a transcontinental passenger service. When we come to that we must recognize certain limitations. One limitation is that passengers can not yet be provided with sleeping quarters, and for that reason flying must be limited to possibly eight or ten hours, or whatever fatigue the passenger can withstand."

Dinner Stories.

"No girl likes candor—about the last thing on earth she wants is to be told what you think of her."

"You're wrong. I told Elsie last night just what I thought of her."

"And what did she say?"

"'I love you, too.'"

The president of the college looked up questioningly at the man who had entered his office and now stood regarding him gravely.

"And what can I do for you, sir?" he inquired.

"I don't suppose you remember me," the visitor began, and seeing the look of doubt on the president's face, went one: "I am Pollard, of the class of '07. The year I left school I was very hard up and you lent me ten dollars. I would come back and remind you of it and pay it. So—"

"Go on," said the president, beaming at him.

"So, here I am. You don't happen to have another ten-spot on you, do you?"

Harding Memorial Tomb to be Completed by Nov. 1

ASSURANCE IS GIVEN BOARD AT INSPECTION

Dedication Will Not Be Held Until Next Year Under Present Plans

Definite assurance that the Harding Memorial tomb will be completed by November 1, the date stipulated in the contract, was given the executive committee of the Harding Memorial Association at its meeting here yesterday.

The official guarantee that the time limit provision of the contract will be met, which came from T. J. Anderson, Jr., Ga., vice president of the Georgia Marble Co., the concern which has charge of the marble construction work.

The statement followed an inspection tour of the building which showed that satisfactory progress is now being made in placing marble and other work on the tomb. Mr. Anderson, members of the executive committee and architects completing the work made up the inspection party.

Following the visit to the tomb site the party took lunch at Hotel Harding and discussed plans for completion of the work.

Difficulty Eliminated

Although work was delayed at the outset by delayed marble shipments, this difficulty has been eliminated and shipments are now coming in on regular schedule.

It is estimated that between 150 and 160 carloads of marble will be required for the entire structure and 40 carloads have already arrived here.

Two of the large mills at the Tate, Ga., quarries are now at work exclusively on marble for the tomb, Mr. Anderson informed the committee.

Although the tomb is certain to be completed on scheduled time, landscaping of the grounds and other details of the final work can not be finished until next year, officials in charge state. The landscaping will be started this fall, however, with grading of the grounds and other preliminary work.

Dedication Next Year

The dedication ceremonies will not take place until next year, probably on June 4 or the anniversary date of President Harding's death. Selection of the date will depend largely upon the wishes of President Coolidge, who is expected to deliver the dedication address.

It is expected that the bodies of President and Mrs. Harding will be placed in the tomb early in October. This will be necessary before construction of the tomb is completed, officials of the memorial association state.

Those attending yesterday's inspection and conference were Charles B. King, Hoke Donithen, O. S. Rapp, Dr. C. W. Sawyer, and Charles D. Schaffer of Marion, and E. P. Mellon of New York City, members of the executive committee, Henry Hornbostel of Pittsburgh, architect who designed the tomb, his assistant, A. J. Brockman of Pittsburgh, A. D. Taylor of Cleveland, landscape artist in charge of plans for the tomb grounds, and Mr. Anderson of the Georgia Marble Co.

Unable To Attend

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former United States Senator from New Jersey and president of the Harding Memorial Association, called the meeting and had planned to attend but illness prevented him from being present.

The E. Elford Co. of Columbus has the general construction contract for the tomb, having let a sub-contract to the Georgia Marble Co. for the marble work.

WESLEY M. KING HURT IN ACCIDENT AT FARM

County Commissioner Kicked by Horse; Ribs Broken and Body Bruised

Wesley M. King, member of the board of county commissioners, was injured this morning at his farm, seven miles southeast of the city when he was kicked by a horse which he had been leading. Mr. King's injuries consist of one and possibly two broken ribs and body bruises.

The accident occurred while Mr. King was helping in hay harvesting operations, the horses being used to convey hay into the mow of the barn. The animal became frightened from some unknown cause and while Mr. King was trying to get it under control he became entangled in rope attached to the horse and was thrown to the ground.

One of the horse's hoofs struck him before workmen nearby were able to come to his assistance.

Dr. F. V. Murphy was summoned to the King home to care for the injured man.

One thing to put off until tomorrow: going into debt.

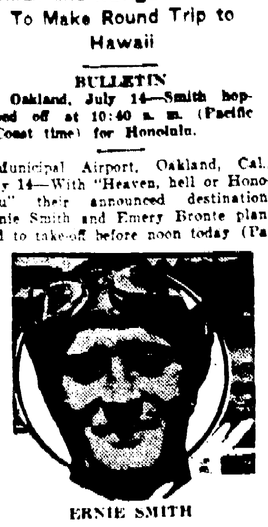
SMITH PLANS TO HOP OFF TODAY FOR HONOLULU

Civilian and Navigator Anxious To Make Round Trip to Hawaii

BULLETIN

Oakland, July 14—Smith hopped off at 10:40 a. m. (Pacific Coast time) for Honolulu.

Municipal Airport, Oakland, Cal., July 14—With "Heaven, hell or Honolulu" their announced destination, Ernie Smith and Emery Bronte planned to take off before noon today (Pacific Coast time) on a non-stop flight to Hawaii. Smith will pilot the plane, Bronte will navigate.



ERNIE SMITH

Although both fliers are eager to make a round trip flight, definite decision to fly back to the mainland from Hawaii will not be made till they safely reach Honolulu. Then they can weigh experiences of the outgoing flight; check the condition of their plane, and avail themselves of any prizes posted by Pacific Coast cities for the homeward hop.

"It's going to be heaven, hell or Hoonlulu for us," Bronte burst out, "and I know it'll be Honolulu."

"We hope to be the only fliers to make the two-way flight," Smith confided. "We are confident we and the plane can make that flight. All we will need is a good sleep in Hawaii and fresh fuel."

In addition to the possible honor of being first to fly both ways, Smith expected the distinction of being the first civilian pilot to fly to Hawaii. Furthermore, he planned to lower by four or five hours the 26-hour cruise of Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger, who made the 2,400-mile flight to Honolulu for the first time 17 days ago.

Miss Doran plans to arrive in Long Beach, Cal., after short flights and contemplates hopping off for Honolulu Aug. 11.

The plane is a special type with a single Wright whirlwind motor, similar to the one used by Col. Lindbergh. It is capable of a sustained flight of more than 50 hours, according to designers.

1,000 ARE HOMELESS AS EARTHQUAKE RESULT

Death List in Palestine Proper Not To Exceed 150; Hundreds Hurt

Jerusalem, Palestine, July 14—Rendering 1,000 persons homeless, and bringing death to several hundred others, Monday's earthquake wrought damage estimated at more than $1,500,000 in Palestine and Trans-Jordania, latest available estimates showed today.

A check-up showed that the casualties in Palestine proper will not exceed 150, although many hundreds were injured. In Nablus, the deaths have been fixed at 60,, and as reports continued to come in from outlying towns in the affected area of Trans-Jordania, indications were that the death list would approximate 400.

The Hebrew University in Jerusalem was among the greatest sufferers, the destruction of laboratories and the resulting interruption of work causing a loss of $50,000.

GENEVA NAVAL PARLEY HOPELESSLY DEADLOCKED

Plenary Session Fails To Show Any Signs of Break; U. S. Insistent

Geneva, July 14—The tripartite naval disarmament parley still is deadlocked hopelessly.

Today's plenary session, with an exposition of the viewpoints of all delegations, failed to show any signs of a break in the deadlock, although it seemed to indicate that the chief differences now are between Great Britain and Japan.

The Hon W. C. Bridgeman, chief British delegate, declared at the end of the session that he believed progress had been made, but other observers were less optimistic.

The one outstanding feature of the session was the flat intimation by Hugh Gibson, American delegate, that the United States will insist upon a real agreement and will not accept any accord of subterfuges.

LENGEL MURDER TRIAL MOVING ALONG SPEEDILY

State May Rest Its Case Some Time During Day; Short Hearing Seen

Canton, July 14—The case of S. A. Lengel, white-haired ex-police chief, on trial for alleged complicity in the Don Mellett murder here last July, was moving at unprecedented speed today, and Prosecutor Harter has announced that the state might rest during the day.

Defense attorneys have indicated they will require less than a day to present their side.

The former chief's name was brought directly into the testimony for the first time yesterday, Thomas Fowler, a neighbor of the former chief testified that a mysterious automobile was driven to the Lengel home about an hour before Mellett was shot down. The state sought to show the alleged shadow of police protection covering the murder and retarding the probe following, when William Betzler was called to the stand and teatified that Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Mellett, told him: "I've got so much pull that I can do anything I please, and if a policeman says anything to me I can tell him to jump in the lake. I wouldn't do it though. I'd go to police headquarters and they would turn me loose when I got there."

Betzler is the man who gave the prosecution Pat McDermotts name shortly after the Mellett slaying.

Testimony of Floyd Streitenberger, former Canton detective under Lengel, was the feature of Wednesdays' session. Streitenberger testified that Lengel on several occasions discussed a plot with him to beat up Mellett.

Dr. A. F. Ewert to Speak on Chautauqua Program

Chautauqua patrons this season will be given an added treat in Dr. A. F. Ewert, minister and scenic motion who will be the speaker at the session Friday afternoon, July 29. Dr. Ewert served as manager of the Marion County Chautauqua in 1925 and has a wide circle of friends here. He will speak on the subject, "The Challenge of a New Day."

Dr. Ewert is pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Chicago, and former chaplain of the American Legion. He served as Lieutenant Colonel of the Illinois National Guard. His lecture will be preceded by an hour's entertainment by John F. Buckwalz, chalk talk artist and cartoonist.

The Chautauqua pavilion has undergone a number of repairs and redecorating in preparation for this week's events. The entire building has been repainted and the doors rehung and a number of minor repairs made. Members of the park board have co-operated most heartily in the work of preparing the grounds for the week's program. An outstanding improvement is the removal of the abandoned fountain near the entrance of the park, which detracted from its beauty. Arrangements have been made by the park board to fill the space occupied by the fountain with flowers.

While nothing definite has been done there is some talk of arranging camping grounds for those wishing to make an outing of the Chautauqua week it was announced today by Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, manager. The grounds are ideal for an outing of this kind and it is expected that in case enough people signify their desire to camp at the park arrangements will be made to care for them. Several years ago a large number of Chautauqua patrons "pitched their tents" at the park and enjoyed a week's outing in connection with the Chautauqua program.

COOLIDGE HAS TIME TO STUDY INDIANS, TREES

Colorful Background of Black Hills Given in Detail in Story

Rapid City, July 14—Location on the "Summer White House" in the "Black Hills" of South Dakota not only gives President Coolidge opportunity to indulge his piscatorial proclivities, but a chance to become acquainted with Indian lore of the early Americans and secure at first hand romantic tales of the pioneers of the early west.

The president may also make himself "at home" on a million-acre federal forest estate which furnishes one of the earliest examples of forest management by the federal government.

The "Summer White House" is located within the boundaries of Custer State Park, which adjoins the Black Hills National Forest and the Harney National Forest, both rich in Indian lore and pioneer historic interest.

These two national forests, set aside by President Cleveland in 1897, have a net area of 1,135,167 acres of government land, 50,000 acres of which are in the Theodore Roosevelt Game Preserve and 50,000 acres in a Federal game refuge adjoining the State Park. Within the present boundaries of the forests there are also 240,457 acres of patented lands, some of them in prosperous farms and ranches on the stream bottoms, some timberland more or less abused by hard cutting and fire, and some mining claims.

Named by Sioux

The name "Black Hills" was given to the region by the Sioux Indians. In their tongue, it was "Paha Sapa," in allusion to the somber appearance of the forest clad heights as seen from the plains.

The Harney Forest was named for General Harney who was one of the early explorers of the region.

The president will have opportunity to see how National Forests are administered and developed. He can see how timber sales are made under methods that keep the forest growing; how grazing is regulated to keep the range green; and how land more valuable for farming than for timber growing has been made available for homesteading.

The first timber sales in any National Forest were in the Black Hills in 1899 and 1900, and the timber to be cut was so carefully selected, under scientific forestry, that the area can be cut again by 1935. About 25,000,000 board feet of logs are cut each year from these Federal timberlands under the same methods, with such an improvement to the forest that even the foresters expect to maintain this annual harvest forever and even to increase it to 40,000,000 feet.

Save Good Trees

This is partly because the old defective trees in the virgin forest are removed in the first cut, and the thrifty sound trees left to grow. When the logger comes back 35 years later, the timber he then gets is much more free from rot and other defects than was that cut the first time. Also, young timber is coming in on old burns and other barren places and will thus increase the areas which can be cut over every 35 years.

Within and near the Black Hills and Harney National Forests are many points of scenic or recreational interest. The famous Hot Springs at the southern end of the Black Hills are visited by thousands, and the Wind Cave National Park and Jewel Cave National Monument also are well known. Harney Peak, the highest point in the United States east of the Rocky Mountains, Custer Peak, the "Needles," and Sylvan Lake are other points of interest, as well as the old mining town of Keystone, where is located the famous Holy Terror mine, from which came the richest gold ore ever found in the world. Tradition says this mine was named in honor of the discoverer's wife.

Pioneer Trans-Ocean Flier Favors Airship Over Planes

LONDON, July 14—While agreeing with Lindbergh and Chamberlin that a transatlantic air passenger service is feasible and will become a reality in the near future, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who won the late Sir John Alcock made the first flight from east to west across the Atlantic eight years ago, believes that it will be by airship and not by airplane.

Discussing the significance of the Lindbergh and Chamberlin flights, Sir Artuh said: "Without being the least dogmatic, I am certainly confident that within a short time, possible a very short time, we shall think no more of passengers flying regularly from New York to London or Paris and vice versa than today we think of them flying regularly between London and Paris or London and Berlin.

"But," he added, "so far as one can anticipate the future, it seems to me to indicate that a trans-atlantic air passenger service will be an affair of airships rather than airplanes. There is one real and ever present airplane risk, which negligible in flying across country, where a pilot can choose a landing place, would lead to disaster over the Atlantic, and that is engine trouble.

"Further, it is reasonable to expect to find pilots who are willing to go without sleep for thirty-six hours with the responsibility of the lives of others in the charge. An additional pilot would mean carrying more gas or the margin of safety being reduced.

Meet Less Obstacles

"It seems to me that there are less obstacles to be overcome in the establishment of an airship service. In the first place, the airship is supported by the air, as a ship is supported by water. In an airship engine trouble can be dealt with while the airship is still supported in and by the air. Serious engine trouble in an airplane means that it has got to come down.

"What I envisage as most likely to happen in the near future, and what I foresee as the normal line of development, is the use of the airship for long distance travel, with the airplane used as a subsidiary and feeding service. One cannot ignore the advantages the airships possesses in respect to long-distance air travel."

CHICAGO MAN TO SPEAK AT BUCYRUS CHURCH, JUNE 24

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary or Eleanor

At Philip Veritzen's unexpected questions concerning his "young cub" I had all I could do to keep from betraying the astonishment — and alarm—I felt at his knowledge, thus disclosed, of things we had thought were foreign to his acquaintance or his desire for information.

Neither Lillian nor I had any idea that he knew of his son's sojourn in the east end of Long Island, and during my description of the Lincoln family, which I had given while we were driving up to the inn, I had dropped no hint of the identity of the young man I had mentioned as having attracted Eleanor Lincoln's admiration. Indeed, I had only spoken of him for Lillian's benefit, because I was anxious to paint as complete a picture of the family for her as I could.

Before I could formulate an answer Lillian came to the rescue with what the great producer must have deemed a staggering blow from the "mean axe" she boasted of possessing.

"So you're keeping tabs on Noel now, are you Phil? Well, it's about time you began to realize that you're the parent of one of the finest lads who ever ate his heart out for a father too stubborn to appreciate him."

Remembering the glimpse I once had had of Philip Veritzen's anguish over the estrangement from his son, which he was too obstinate to end, Lillian's speech seemed brutal to me. Yet I knew that even with her strong sympathy for Noel she would not have uttered the words if it had not been for the father's slighting reference to the boy.

There was no change in Mr. Veritzen's face or eyes as she spoke. But his body stiffened ever so slightly and his head lifted exactly as if he just had received a slight electric shock. He was still looking in my direction, as if waiting for an answer to the query he had put to me, and with a nonchalance which Lillian's interruption had given me time to assume, I said:

"You're what a neighbor of mine would call 'a master hand at guessing,' Mr. Veritzen. Yes, Noel is the young man upon whom Miss Lincoln's fancy appeared to be fixed on the day we called upon her. Noel happened to be at the house and we took him with us."

A grim little smile curved my employer's lips.

"It would be hard to fix an occasion when he didn't 'happen' to be there, wouldn't it?" he asked. "At least as long as you have Miss Mary Harrison for a guest."

Again I felt a little clutch of fear at my heart. What else did the man know? Of course, he must have had some trusted agent watching the movements of his son, but except for Noel's frequent calls at the farmhouse, there was nothing to connect him with Mary. She never had gone with him, even to drive, unless Katherine or I were with her.

"I imagine she is the attraction at the farmhouse," I returned, with a little laugh, although my lips were stiff with the fear that he held other and more terrifying knowledge of Mary behind his smiling mask.

He looked at me steadily and I saw something inscrutable. I wondered if it were mockery—in his brilliant black eyes.

"I cannot commend his discrimination," he said, and beneath the folds of my coat, my fingers involuntarily contracted into a fist with which I could have struck him for this insane repetition of the personal note when my nerves were so taut with the fear that he already knew of Mary's escapade as the masked dancer, and thus would make absolutely futile her intended confession to him. There was a note of contempt in my anger also. It was so banal a thing for so brilliant a man to utter. It was the sort of thing, couched in different language, perhaps, which Otto, the chauffeur, altering stolidly behind the wheel of the great car, might say to the parlormaid of the Veritzen household. And I felt that the parlormaid's answering smile could be no subtler than the mechanical grimace with which I answered Mr. Veritzen's sally as I waited uneasily for his next words.

The only Ginger Ale made this way~ Aged 6 months

Clicquot Club

There Is a Real Difference

AS soon as a bottle of Clicquot Club is opened—the full-flavored Golden or the delicate Pale Dry—you will scent the difference. One sip and you will know you have found your ginger ale.

The bouquet, the aroma, the zestful tang!—they have a quality all their own. The reason is in the aging.

It is careful aging that makes Clicquot Club excel in mellow softness; that gives it a charm of rich flavor no other ginger ale can match.

The clear, pure water from the Clicquot spring; the skilled blending of flavors; the craftsman's care with which its making is guided and guarded—to these are added the crowning touch that gives rare wines distinction.

For six months the flavor-elements of Clicquot Club undergo those subtle changes which aging alone can effect; for six months the natural blending proceeds, and at the end of that time comes this most tempting of beverages.

No preservatives of any kind are needed or used in the carrying out of this process, for the water and all the ingredients, whose quality is higher than the highest government standards, are as pure as Nature can provide.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Navajo Indians Take To Auto for Transportation

Flagstaff, Ariz., July 14—That wilderness where the sun is master, now is familiar with the honking of an auto horn and the Navajo now considers the automobile as the only and best means of transportation, Navajo land having been invaded by the motor car.

One must not assume, however, that the Navajo has discarded his horse. True the Indian no longer employes his pony as a means of transportation, but in order to uphold tribal traditions, the Navajo brave of the younger generation clings to his pony and uses it at times to display his horsemanship. But for rapid transportation throughout the well known "wide open spaces," the motor car is used.

Carried into the Navajo country by the automobile, the white man introduced the motor car to the Indian. And the Navajo was not slow in profiting by the white man's visit.

Once the automobile was introduced to the Navajo, the latter was quick to appreciate the fact that while an automobile is standing idle on the range no fuel is required to sustain it, while if he uses his horse in his sheep herding, as formerly, Old Dobbin must be fed.

Detroit Steel Railway Department Considering Use as Quiet Move

Detroit, July 14—Research work now being done by the department of street railways indicates that within a short time street cars will be operated almost noiselessly, according to Del Smith, general manager of the lines.

Smith told of experiments being made here, following the successful use of roller bearing journals by one of the leading railroads. Noise was reduced to a minimum, and Smith said he believes the same results can be accomplished in the operation of street cars.

WAITS 20 YEARS

Scotch Girl Crosses Ocean To Sweetheart After Long Wait

New York, July 14—An old axiom dictates that time waits for no man but, wisely, it said nothing about women.

For 20 years Robert Innes waited for Catherine Mitchel to become his bride and, although she was willing, there was a wide breach between them—the Atlantic ocean.

Coming to the United States in 1907, Innes bought a ranch in Montana but to bring his fiancee, Catherine whom he it never yielded him sufficient income had left in Scotland, to this country. And she, in turn, could not save enough out of her earnings to pay her passage across.

Her father died recently and Catherine inherited enough money to immediately sail across the barrier that for a score of years had separated her from Robert. He met her at the pier and they lost no time in getting married here, leaving after the ceremony for Innes' ranch in White Water, Saco, Mont.

"Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic in 33 hours and it took me 20 years but I got more in my way than he did in his for the trip," said the bride happily.

COURT NEWS

Seeks Judgment

Judgment for $16,519.02 and sale of 180 acres of land in Montgomery Township for payment of the claim is asked by James Barringer in a suit started yesterday against Bernard Bramlage, Lulu Bramlage and William A. Stage in the court of common pleas.

The amount asked for is alleged to be the principal and interest due on a note given to Barringer with first mortgage on the land as security. The note and mortgage were negotiated Oct. 15, 1926 with Bernard Bramlage, Christ Bramlage and Lulu Bramlage as the signers. Later, the petition states, the land was transferred to William A. Stage, who agreed to assume the obligation. The original amount of the mortgage was $10,000.

Hugh C. Tyler is named a party defendant due to the fact that he holds a claim against the property, Barringer states in his petition.

The court is asked for an order of foreclosure and sale with the mortgage designed as first lien.

The plaintiff is represented by Mouser, Young & Mouser.

Seeks Divorce

Gross neglect and extreme cruelty are charged against Matthew G. Douce in a suit for divorce started in the court of common pleas here yesterday by Arena Hinds Douce.

Mr. and Mrs. Douce were married July 10, 1924 and have no children. The plaintiff alleges that she was compelled to pay all of the household expenses while employed as a school teacher. They have been living apart since October, 1925, the petition states.

Mrs. Douce, through her attorneys, Mouser, Young & Mouser, asks for a divorce and restoration of her maiden name, Arena Hinds.

Politicians Change Oratory To Suit Radio Campaign

Rather Afraid of "Ether Machine" as Adjunct to Drives

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 14—Politicians are a good bit afraid of the radio as a campaign adjunct.

It was tried out to a limited extent in 1924, but the experiment then was not on a sufficient scale to give the party managers, a very accurate idea of broadcasting's possibilities for good or evil, on the electorate.

The question becomes pretty serious, with the prospect that it will figure much more extensively next year, and maybe make a lot of votes if it's rightly handled, or lose a lot if it's botched.

• • •

IT seems to be agreed at both party headquarters that political orators, with the exception of a few headliners, will have to say a great deal more in a small fraction of as many words, over the radio as they used to employ when they addressed their audiences exclusively face to face.

Where an hour and a half was once a fair average, henceforward the limit will be about fifteen minutes.

This will mean an entirely new kind of speeches. They'll have to deal with brass tacks right from the jump. There won't be any time for flag waving or screeching by the eagle.

• • •

BUNK will be less effective than it was, anyway—even if the radio afforded time for it.

Heretofore a political meeting's purpose hasn't really been to appeal to the voters' reason or to convince them. The idea's been to stir up a lot of enthusiasm ,to get a big crowd to be huddle everybody with noise and confusion, to start a stampede in the desired direction and keep it going until election day—and the less folks know what it's all about, the better.

Obviously it isn't so easy to hokus a man who sits down, all by himself in cold blood and his own home, to listen to something "off the air," through a pair of ear pieces. He's entirely in his right mind and more critical.

• • •

GENERALLY speaking, experienced spellbinders suspect the old-time magnetic personality game has about lost its grip.

What good can Al Smith get out of an imposing presence, an attractive manner and a heavenly smile before a radio audience? What does a crowd that can't see him care if President Coolidge is smallish, knock-kneed, awkward of gesture and dyspeptic-looking?

A classy delivery will continue to signify, perhaps more than it ever did, but, aside from that, the prospects are that the future political orator's speech will count more than the personality of the man who makes it.

• • •

OF course there won't be many hook-ups of national proportions next fall.

There'll be a number for the presidential and vice presidential candidates and a few apiece for a handful of their very largest-sized supporters men of cabinet or potential cabinet rank in the opposing camps.

Otherwise they'll be only statewide affairs or less.

• • •

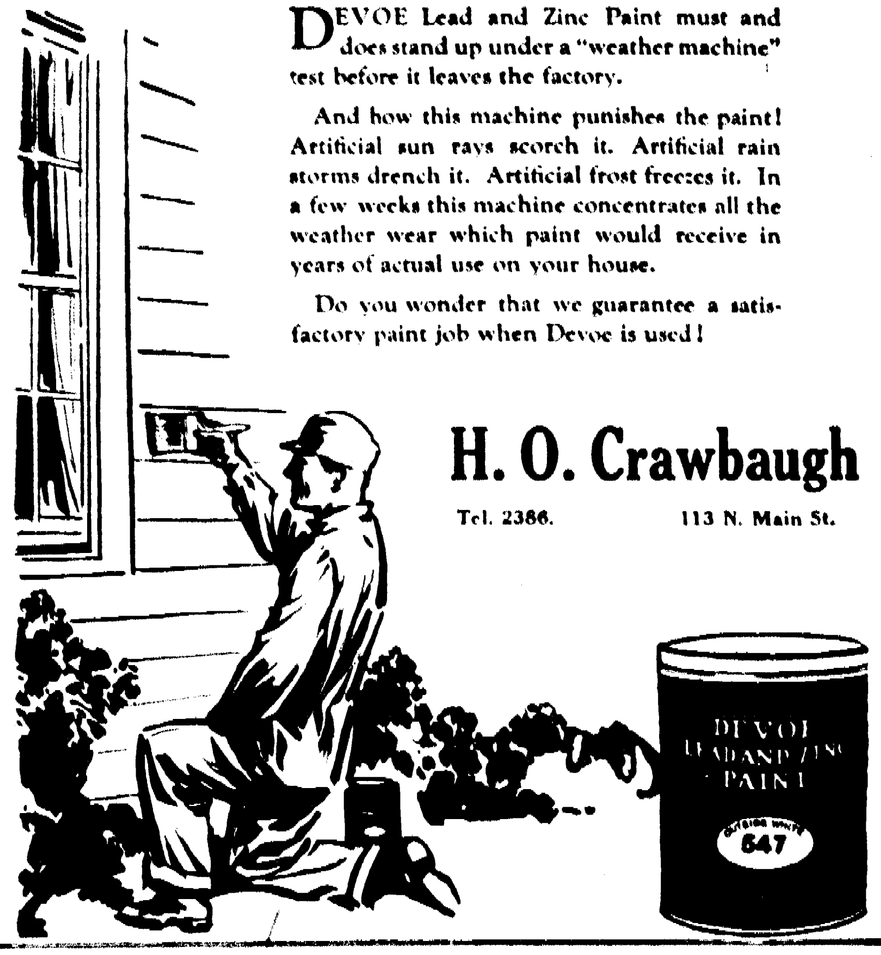
STILL, the radio's effect will permeate the whole campaign. The whole speaking program will be modified by it.

How much of a tramp it will throw into the old-fashioned style of political meetings remains to be seen, but the managers hunch is that it will be considerable.

Some think the art of spellbinding will be completely made over as a result of it.

A good looking ugliness causes many a young man to reflect.

The "weather machine" enables us to guarantee you a satisfactory paint job...



DEVOE Lead and Zinc Paint must and does stand up under a "weather machine" test before it leaves the factory.

And how this machine punishes the paint! Artificial sun rays scorch it. Artificial rain storms drench it. Artificial frost freezes it. In a few weeks this machine concentrates all the weather wear which paint would receive in years of actual use on your house.

Do you wonder that we guarantee a satisfactory paint job when Devoe is used!

GALION MEN PAY LIQUOR FINES AS CRASH RESULT

One Slightly Injured In Auto Accident Near Seccaium Park

Bucyrus, July 14—Jess Plasencia, Galion, was fined $50 and costs when he appeared in Mayor Arthur Schuler's court late yesterday afternoon charged with driving while intoxicated. Fines of $10 each were imposed upon George Lauer and R. C. Cramer, both of Galion, who were charged with intoxication. They were riding with Plasencia.

The men were arrested following an accident, which occurred at the entrance of Seccaium Park shortly before midnight Tuesday. They were coming toward Bucyrus in a high-powered roadster and collided with a Ford in which were riding Charles and Russell Hershler and Bob Monnett, all of Bucyrus. The Ford was struck from the rear and sent into the ditch and the other car was overturned about 100 feet farther down the road. Lauer sustained several cuts, but all others escaped unhurt.

All three Galion men paid their fines and were released yesterday afternoon.

EATS, RESTS AND FEELS BETTER THAN IN YEARS

Neuritis, Rheumatic Pains All Disappear; General Health Fine; Credits Konjola

"For a year I couldn't do my work, because neuritis and rheumatism got the best of me, and I was never able to get relief until I found Konjola, but now my general health is fine, and I feel better than I have in years."

MRS. IDA C. WHITE

This remarkable statement about the celebrated new Konjola compound was made just a few days ago by Mrs. Ida C. White, well-known Marion lady, living at 229 East George St., this city, while talking with The Konjola Man at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., where he is personally introducing and explaining Konjola to the people of this section throughout each day.

"My stomach is improved wonderfully," said Mrs. White, "so that I eat whatever I want and have no after-effects. My nerves are strengthened so I rest better, and no one knows how much happier I am since Konjola has made such a great change in my general health.

"This rheumatism and neuritis was causing me one misery after another. For over a year I didn't know what it felt like to be out of misery. Losing so much sleep at nights I was only a weak, nervous wreck. It seemed like nothing could be done for me, and I was putting out all kinds of money in vain. Finally I found this new Konjola and the blessed relief it has given me makes me feel like I am the happiest person in the whole state. I haven't one single pain of any kind. It is worth a great deal to know about a medicine like Konjola, and I recommend it every chance I get."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sams), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

No Trace of Poison Found Thus Far In Examination of Children's Vital Organs

Toledo Chemists and Authorities Continue Investigations of Seeming Mystery Surrounding Deaths of Mary and Robert Sams

Toledo, July 14 Dale Sams, 35, was still in custody of Toledo police today while chemists and authorities continued their investigations seeking to solve the seeming mystery surrounding the death of Mary Sams, 7, and Robert Sams, 7, children of the prisoner.

Sams claimed his daughter died as a result of an attack of whooping cough and that his son was fatally shot by a prowler.

Although the report of the chemists who are testing parts of organs taken from the bodies of the children, exhumed at Grove Cemetery, Kenton, early this week, will not be ready for several days, it was stated that, thus far, no trace of poison has been found by the chemists.

FATHER FACING SANITY TEST

Kenton, July 14—Dale Sams, 35, former Kenton man, held by Toledo police while an analysis is being made of portions of the bodies of Robert, 7, and Mary Alberta, 7, his children, is to be given a sanity test, Inspector of Detectives Louis Haas, Toledo, has announced according to word received here.

Sams claims he is the victim of a frame up. The bodies of the children were exhumed in Grove Cemetery here last Monday and the vital organs removed and taken back to Toledo for analysis in an attempt to determine the cause of their deaths.

Further developments in the case and the decision of whether or not the body of Sams' third wife buried in Grove cemetery, will be exhumed, depends upon the results of the analysis, Toledo officials say.

Richardson was the leader, and a very interesting meeting was held, in which all present took part.

Following the lesson study, a business session was held, at which time the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Edith Aten, president; Mrs. Fannie Lhulinger, vice president; Miss Mary Zulauf, secretary; Miss Cora Zulauf, treasurer. His Piles Gone In Just Five Days

Almost A Miracle, He Tells His Friends

He suffered intense agony from piles for years. The itching—the burning—the terrible straining almost drove him crazy.

He went to his druggist and bought a tube of Pile-Foe because he had read an ad that guaranteed it to "end all pile distress, agony, itching and burning in 5 days or money back."

It cost him a dollar, but as he tells his friends when boosting Pile-Foe, "It was worth a thousands. It stopped all misery as if by magic. It was all O. K. in five days. It was almost a miracle how speedily they vanished."

Pile-Foe is a physician's prescription that Henney & Cooper and druggists everywhere rigidly guarantee.—Adv.

HARDIN COUNTY FAIR QUESTION STILL PENDING

Agricultural Society To Hold Meeting Next Week for Final Action

Kenton, July 14—Whether or not Hardin County will have a fair this fall, will be decided at a meeting of the Hardin County Agricultural Society within the next week, according to announcement today by Ralph Pugh, secretary.

Although the fair question has been under discussion for at least two weeks and the society has petitioned the county commissioners for financial aid as provided by a state law, no definite decision in the matter has been reached.

The commissioners have not as yet officially acted upon the request for at least $2,000 as fair aid. However, they expressed the opinion that under state law they will be compelled to grant from $1,500 to $2,000 for a county fair but not until after the fair is held. This opinion was expressed at the time representatives of the agricultural society appeared before the commissioners.

The 1926 agricultural exposition here was seriously handicapped by inclement weather and proceeds failed to meet the demand for premiums, awards and other expenses. It was only recently that the society disposed of its last financial obligations following the fair.

50 GOLFERS ENTERED IN TOURNAMENT AT KENTON

First Official Contest in Progress at Spring-Grove Course

Kenton, July 14 — More than 50 golfers are entered in the tournament booked for today at the newly constructed Spring-Grove Golf course, east of here. It is the first tourney for the new course and prizes are to be awarded by the club to the winner and runner-up in the 18 hole contest.

Embryo golfers, taking to the field for the first time this season, are to be given a handicap of five on their final scores. Par on the 18 holes is 54. The match is expected to set the first official course record of the season.

Rivalry is keen and club officials are planning to conduct the tourneys each week if the first try should prove successful.

At the present time the Spring-Grove course is only a 9-hole affair and participants will be forced to play the course twice to complete the 18 holes.

Bunnies Gambol on Green of Bucyrus Residence Lawns

BUCYRUS, July 14—Hunters who scour the brush in the immediate vicinity of the city limits in search of rabbits when the season opens here next November, should be well rewarded if the activities of Brer Rabbit within the city limits is any indication, at least so say various residents of the southwestern portion of the city.

Neighbors on W. Charles and Warren-dale streets got together in the morning and condole each other for the losses in garden truck due to the ravages of Peter Rabbit, and in the evening these same neighbors sat on their front porches and watch the guilty rabbits gambol on the lawns, seemingly not the least bit conscience stricken.

BLAMES IDEAL WEATHER FOR POOR COLLECTIONS

Payment of June Taxes Slow, Hardin County Treasurer Says

Kenton, July 14—James McCullough, Hardin County treasurer, blames ideal weather conditions, which have prevailed during the past several days, for the somewhat slow payments of June taxes.

With the time limit set for tax paying only a few days away, collections up to and including July 12, are approximately $12,252.52 under those for a like period last year.

A majority of those who have not yet made payment, the treasury points out, live in the rural districts. With existing conditions favorable for farm work the majority of the farmers have put off coming in to pay taxes, he said.

Records show that on July 12, 1926, a total of $213,106.73 of the June tax had been collected while for the same period this year, only $170,553.61 has been turned into the treasurer.

For Kenton up to and including July 12 last year the collection of June taxes totaled $50,049.96 and this year over the corresponding period of that time, they totaled by $45,000.21.

you, too, may be proud of a clear skin

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema, you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Go to the blood. Take a course of S.S.S. Tone up your system. Help Nature make you yourself again.

S.S.S. helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. It was some time ago. Now I feel well and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It builds up the skin and makes you strong. It fills you with energy." Mrs. J. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is most economical.—Adv.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But occasionally there were drastic constipation ailments for the relief of which Dr. Caldwell did not consider it safe for human beings to tamper with the system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used when needed.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

This prescription for constipation that he used in his practice, and which he began selling in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable remedy, intended for children and elderly people, who need just such a mild, safe, effective stimulant as Syrup Pepsin. The successful management this remedy has proven its worth and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions are used a year proves the confidence of people have in it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

WHY is an umpire?

We wonder. We know that the umpire is placed in the field during a contest as an official who sees that every rule and tradition of the game is upheld. But what we don't know, and have never been able to find out, is why any man would want to be an umpire.

This query could be applied especially well in the case of the Marion Recreational baseball teams where umpires are placed in the field and not compensated in any way. And at this period of the season, when games and decisions are being protested in such a lively manner, we still are wondering why a man will officiate at a game and derive nothing but kicks and enemies.

We still have in mind the incident the other night when a big brawny baseball player took it upon himself to place a left hook to the goatee of one umpire who had not given him the favor in a close decision at first base. We realize that the player failed to crack his knuckles against the chin bone of the official, but we are informed from a good source that his intentions were good.

In a game where the responsibility for the fairness of the play must rest upon the shoulders of someone, and since we placed that trouble upon an individual which we call an umpire, no excuse is good enough to make an attack of any sort on him, whom we ourselves selected.

The affair of which we are speaking, is the farthest that any player has yet gone in an effort to get the umpire to change his mind. But because it sets on a plane by itself, it has by no means been the only severe attack on the association officials.

However, as an example to the rest of the players in the league including those who are for clean sports and those who are not, the individual who made the break, last Friday, ought to be shown that the umpire's word is supreme and if necessary by expulsion or suspension.

• • •

It must be remembered that the men who do the officiating, are not always in love with their jobs. In fact, most of them dread the ordeal, but do so to promote the activity in the city.

The position of umpire could be made a pleasure and the man in charge of obtaining umpires at the Y. M. C. A. would not have any trouble at all, if the teams of Marion would play the game and not the umpire.

• • •

WITH keen interest we watch the outcome of the annual tennis tournament being held at Culver, Ind., in which "Ted" Cunningham, one of Marion's best, is participating.

Out of the dim past, the present moulder of this column is in possession of a view of the days when "Ted" started his career on the old Clover-ay courts. Living possibly a stone's throw from the courts, if the stone is thrown far enough, the lad spent his time playing on the courts.

It was still in the time when "Ted" had not yet outgrown his knee-pants, that with Thorley Sargant, his teammate, won the junior tennis championship of the city of Marion. And not many years later did it take the two to beat all teams for the senior doubles championship.

We can't predict that Cunningham will win the classic at Culver, but we will surmise that the player who beats the Marion lad, will get the break of a hard battle.

• • •

BEFORE we go any farther we might mention the "tumbling act" which took place as a side show attraction in connection with the Trinity Baptist-Epworth game, at Central diamonds, Tuesday night.

The writer, right fielder of the Baptists, furnished the amusement when he took it upon himself to snag a fly which looked like it was headed over the right field fence.

There isn't much more to say but that the ball did go over the fence and not only it but the right fielder in addition, who flopped on yon side of the barrier on his neck. He is suffering from humiliation today.

Jimmie De Forest and Jack Renault Favor Dempsey in Title Bou

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

Saratoga Springs, July 14—No less an authority, an association run in not unauthoritative day, than Professor James De Forest, the celebrated chewing rubber, has gone out on a limb for Jack Dempsey.

You can take it or leave it, but the Professor insists on laying it on the line for the man he trained eight years ago to beat Jess Willard and become the World's Heavyweight Champion at Toledo, Ohio.

The Professor admits Dempsey has gone back farther than rubber tired buggies and moustached ball players, but he is positive he is still good enough to whip a raped lire conversationalist.

Ready To Fight

There's the principal reason the Professor is out with a boost for his old pupil. On top of that, he agrees Dempsey is in good shape and ready to fight a hard fight if he has to.

Ordinarily you can take these blabberings of the oldtimers who sit around the fight camps and watch the boys do their stuff, with a spoonful of okra soup. In most cases the oldtimers are just talking to charm their acoustics. I have an idea, however, that the Professor is looking when he swings with Dempsey. The two aren't the great hitters they used to be. If they were, D Forest would be in there training him now.

Under the local and state laws of New York, every citizen is entitled to an opinion and it just happens that the Professor's unbiased and not wholly unimportant opinion is that Dempsey can beat a bird named Sharkey, and, what's more, will beat him when they meet a week from tonight.

Jack Renault, Too

The Professor is not entirely alone in his opinion either. Jack Renault, the synthetic Canadian mounted horseman who stoops to heavyweight fighting from time to time, has stepped out with a cheer and vote of confidence for the Hollywood businessman.

Renault offers the piquant theory that Sharkey, being deficient in the matter of backing away from punches, will stumble and flounder all over himself getting away from Dempsey's initial rushes.

Having exchanged a series of authentic hunches in the ring with Sharkey himself, it may be conceded that Renault knows what he is talking about.

"Funny think about Sharkey," he says, "the fellow can't back up. That's one of the little tricks of the game he hasn't learned. He can force a fight fine. When he has to back away from an attack he is lost."

Good And Bad

Dempsey was both good and bad yesterday. He had the assembled tourists in the foothills groaning and cheering.

The cheering came when he pinned Chief Meeghan, one of those Indian heavyweights you find in bargain basements, on the ropes with an old time Dempsey attack.

For a brief interval Dempsey looked suspiciously like the man that used to be he was swimming with his old time savagery, hitting with great power and seemingly reveling in his chaste labors.

But after that one round he was shot. Against American Joe Gans, a little fellow with speed, Dempsey looked bad and was bad. The tip-off that he was a tired gent came when he grabbed Gans after a minute or so of pirouetting and went into a clinch for the very apparent idea of resting.

The boys scrapped to number this [illegible] out of the day was [illegible] that [illegible] good for a [illegible] away from [illegible] A [illegible] beat or [illegible]

HARRY WILLS DEFEATED, IS THROUGH WITH RING

Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish Heavyweight, Scores Knockout Over Negro

New York, July 14—Harry Wills, the late "black menace" of the prize ring, today went into pugilistic oblivion. He is through. Positively, this time.

Equipped with a ferocious scowl and a pair of long, gorilla-like arms and handicapped by a pair of leaden feet, Mr. Wills faced Paulino Uzcudun, the colorful Spanish Heavyweight, in the ring at Ebbets Field last night. For three rounds it was unquestionably the worst heavyweight fight seen here in years but in the fourth the bouncing Basque slipped under the giant negro's left arm and whacked him a right hook to the chin. Wills fell like a log.

It was the first real blow that the short armed Paulino landed. Wills lay on his back, the whites of his eyes rolling, as the referee began to toll the count. Wills squirmed to a half sitting position and regarded Paulino with a sickly, bewildered look. At the count of nine he arose, groggy, and weakly extended his long left for protection.

Paulino rushed headlong at the giant negro. He shot a flurry of rights and lefts at Wills' head, a left hook finally clipping him on the point of the chin. Wills went back against the ropes, limp and spent, reeled and fell.

This time Mr. Wills did not hear the count. He was out.

Chicago Cubs Retain Hold on First Place

National Group Leaders Win and Lose; Pirates Drop to Robins

New York, July 14—Chicago's alert Cubs today retain their hold on first place in the National League by a margin of twelve points, even though they split a double-header with the Boston Braves, losing the first 6 to 3 and winning the second 4 to 1. The second place Pittsburgh club, meanwhile was dropping an eleven inning game to Brooklyn, 2 to 1.

The third-place Cardinals kept in the race by winning a hard-fought twelve-inning contest from the Phillies, 9 to 7. Toporcer's single helping to break up the game. It was the fourth straight victory of St. Louis over Philadelphia.

New York's Giants, in fourth place, dropped a farcical engagement to the tail-end Reds, 11 to 3, the pitching and fielding of the Giants being terrible.

The American League race became even more one sided as the second place Washington Senators dropped a double header to Detroit, 7 to 3, and 18 to 9, while the League-Leading Yankees romped to a 5 to 3 win over Cleveland. Ruth, incidentally, clouted four hits which were a big factor in the New York victory.

In Chicago, the White Sox lost to the Athletics, 7 to 5. It was "Eddie Collins Day" and the former White Sox manager was presented with an automobile. Collins responded by getting two hits and batting .500.

St. Louis beat the lowly Red Sox, 14 to 3, in a loose exhibition. Sisler of the Browns got four hits, making eight hits in a row for him. The Browns haven't lost a game all season to Boston.

MANDELL AND M'GRAW READY FOR TITLE BATTLE

Lightweight Championship To Be Decided Friday Night at Detroit

Detroit, July 14—Sammy Mandell, Lightweight Champion and Phil McGraw, rugged challenger, are ready today for their title bout at University of Detroit Stadium Friday night.

The fighters weigh in tomorrow afternoon. Mandell likely will scale between 134½ and 135 pounds, while McGraw will tip the beam at 132 or a bit more.

Mandell rules the favorite, because of his cleverness. McGraw, always the aggressor, announced his intention of carrying the fight to the champion.

BOTH CROWN CONTENDERS HAVE BRILLIANT RECORDS

New York, July 14—Here's what the record books show about Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, heavyweights, who meet in the ring one week from tonight for a shot at the title.

Fights engaged in	68	33
Won by knockout	47	9
Won otherwise	11	17

Bobby Jones Again Looms As British Open Champ

• • •

Out 4-5-4-6-5-4-3-3-4—38.
In 3-3-5-5-5-4-4-4-3—36.

If Bobby Jones can turn in another phenomenal round today, he is almost certain to clinch the championship for all those who are not within 15 strokes of the leader tonight will be dropped.

Tom Stevens, of California, had a nice round in 73 today for an aggregate of 149. Stevens played par for the course.

His card follows:

Out 4-5-4-4-5-4-4-3-3—36.
In 4-3-4-5-4-4-5-4-4—37.

Melhorn's card outward follows:

Out 5-6-5-4-5-4-4-3-4—40.

Melhorn was home in 40 giving him 80 for the round and aggregate of 157.

Joe Kirkwood, who is well up with the leaders with a 72 for yesterday's round, was out in 36 today.

Kirkwood was home in 36, giving him a 72 for the round and an aggregate of 144, which gives him a fine chance to be in the money.

Thomas H. Cotton, young Englishman, had a fine 72 today for an aggregate of 145.

Rene Colias, the French star, had another bad round today for a 78 and an aggregate of 150.

W. B. Torrance, of Edinburgh, had a rugged 80 today for an aggregate of 152.

At first we were scairt, and then when he began to holler we went down and turned on the hose and sprinkled him till he hollered louder than ever, and just then Mush's wife came charging into the schoolyard and we skun out and went to the pasture and left him hanging way up in the air. When we came back he was gone and the wire was gone and so was the pulley, and when we were on the way to the vacant lot we passed his house and he was setting on his front step eating an ice cream cone and he had five all-day-suckers beside him and a box of candy in his lap.

We looked over the fence and asted him where our wire and pulley and strap was, and he said he went hand over hand to the tree, and took the wire off and sold all of it to the junk man. That is the kind of a dirty crook he is.

"Well, I see you got here all right," said a voice close by and turning Peter found B. Z. Beaver at his side. "I have wasted about all the time this evening that I can afford, so if you will excuse me I will join the rest of the builders as soon as I have told you what is what. Have you noticed the canal? It is about two feet wide and when it is finished, if all goes well and we have no setbacks, it will be nearly one hunderd feet long."

"Is the water very deep?" asked Peter curiously.

"Two feet—not so deep here as by the dam. But it wouldn't be well for a baby fox to venture in. He'd find it over his head. Notice that fellow with the mud under his chin?"

"Yes. What is he going to do with it? Cement the sides of the canal?" The Boy had guessed right.

"Exactly," declared B. Z. The chap swimming along behind him is floating that bit of wood, pushing it before him. Two other Beavers are picking out stray bits of bark—the waters of the canal are sluggish and must be kept clear. And the ones making all that noise are chopping away some thick roots that left alone would make the stream too narrow!"

Sciatic-Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Bradley Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.—Adv.

BIGGER FEET?

Women's Pedals Have Grown Half Size in 10 Years, Claim

Lima, July 14—Along with a natural complexion and long hair, bid farewell to another attribute of the maiden of yesterday—her tiny feet.

A local shoe salesman, after a long and purely analytical observation, says that the average feminine pedal extremities have increased a half-inch in length and a full size in width during the last 10 years.

"In 1917, the average young woman wore a size 4D shoe. Today she takes a 5A," is the way this scientist sums up his analysis.

Dancing, athletics and walking on hard pavements are responsible, he says; and further opines that if the tendency continues, the flapper of today will have a daughter whose "dogs" will rival those of the corner policeman.

Bears Make Fruitless Efforts To Bring About Reaction; Tone Holds Firm

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks strong; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds firm; call money four per cent; grain steady; copper steady; oil firm; cotton strong; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange steady.

New York, July 14—Despite efforts of the bears to bring about a reaction, the stock market ruled generally higher today. After opening irregular, the market advanced rather buoyantly but along toward early afternoon profit taking by professional operators checked the upward swing and in a few spots effected declines. For the most part, however, prices continued to display a firm tone.

United States Steel maintained most of its strength, reacting only a fraction from its new top of 126½, reached earlier in the session. General Motors, another recognized leader in the market, was selling at 202⅞ at 1 o'clock, up 2¾.

Standard Investment securities received continued support from investment buyers and held most of their early gains.

Sterling Products advanced to a new high peak, selling up 2¾ points at 120¾. New tops were also made by General Cigar, Air Reduction, Continental Insurance, Case Threshing Machine and Union Carbide & Carbon. They were bid up from 1 to 8 points but not all of them retained their maximum gains.

PRINCE CAROL HOPES TO SEE DYING FATHER

Friends in Peasant Party Urge Ex-Crown Prince To Go to Bucharest

Paris July 14—Prince Carol's desire to see his slowly dying father before it is too late may be realized through the good offices and loyal efforts of his supporters in Roumania—the young leaders of the peasants party.

Carol's announcement in an exclusive interview granted this correspondent last February that he wanted permission to return to Bucharest and visit King Ferdinand was followed by a deadlock between father and son.

The king and Carol's mother Queen Marie, informed the runaway prince that he must agree to forsake his red-haired lady love, Mme. Lupescu, and become reconciled with his wife, Crown Princess Helen. Otherwise Ferdinand would decline to ask the Roumanian for a modification of the ten years exile imposed on Carol at the time of his second abdication.

Prince Refused

Carol flatly refused to give up Mme. Lupescu. He respectfully replied that he merely wished to see his father before death from cancer came. He intended to make his visit short and non-political; he would return to Mme. Lupescu afterward, and if he saw his wife at all in Roumania, it would be to demand a divorce from her.

Subsequent messages were received from Queen Marie advising her son that he had broken his father's heart in his dying days and had "disgraced the royal family before the Roumanian people and the whole world by continuing to live an open sin." But Carol's loyalty to Mme. Lupescu was unshaken.

Then the fears of the peasant party stepped in. They sent a confidential emissary to Carol in defiance of a government manifesto prohibiting Roumanians from communicating with the ex-Crown Prince. This messenger remains in Paris, after urging Carol to return to Bucharest at all costs before his father's death.

Peasant Party Aid

Carol was told that if he would ask Premier Averescu for permission to make a brief visit to the king's bedside, the peasant party deputies in the Roumanian parliament were ready to insist that this permission be granted. The sympathy of the entire country would force the government to yield and a delegation of peasant party members would meet Carol at the border. A military escort also would be provided to insure the prince's safety.

If Carol fails to see his father before death claims him, the former Crown Prince has been warned that he will lose entirely the hitherto unwavering support of the peasant party and of his other staunch friends in the ranks of the young Roumanians.

The emissary lingering in Paris told the International News Service that Carol will yet be king of Roumania, if he goes to see his father now. This spokesman of the peasant party continued:

"When he is back in his country he will see that the people all want him to be restored as heir to the throne. He is the only hope of our dynasty's survival."
